Students these days often have a lot of worries. Sometimes they have problems with their schoolwork, and sometimes with their friends. What can they do about this? Some people believe the worst thing is to do nothing. Laura Mills, a teenager from London, agrees. “Problems and worries are normal in life,” says Laura. “66 (but) I think sharing them with someone helps a lot. If we don’t talk to anyone, we’ll certainly feel worse.”

Laura once lost her wallet, and 67 (worry) for days. She was afraid to tell her parents about it. She even walked three 68 (mile) to school each day because she didn’t have any money. She just kept thinking, “If I tell my parents, they’ll be angry!” In the end, she talked to her parents and they were really 69 (understand). Her dad said he sometimes made careless mistakes 70 (he). They got her a new wallet and asked her 71 (be) more careful. “I will always remember to share my problems in the future!” Laura says.

Robert Hunt advises students about common problems. He feels the same way as Laura. “It’s best not to run away from our problems. We should always 72 (try) to solve them.” He thinks the 73 (one) step is to find someone you trust to talk to. This person 74 (need) to be an expert like him. Students often forget that their parents have more experience, and are always there to help them. In English, we say that sharing a problem is like cutting it in half. So you’re halfway to solving a problem just by 75 (talk) to someone about it!
